

Claire Walsh

Senior Career Coach

"I inspire and uplift you to help close the gap from where you are to where you want to be"

Claire is a coach, author, and speaker passionate about helping people in transition transform their lives by discovering their true values, uncovering their passion and living the life they were called to live.

A 14-year veteran career coach at Bravanti, she has been guiding candidates through the transition process by accessing the comprehensive tools provided along with creating an environment conducive to learning and growing. Compassionate and understanding, Claire provides a safe haven for folks to land to do the necessary work to be successful.

Claire has facilitated workshops to numerous organizations in the public and private sector specializing in personal transformation delivering content that inspires, uplifts, and instills confidence. A brief listing includes Dept of Veterans Affairs, Office of Surface Mining, Denver Federal Executive Board, US Mint, City of Greenwood Village, Xcel Energy and People Soft to name a few. She was sought out to speak to the returning soldiers from Iraq at the Fort Carson Army Post.

Education & Credentials

- 27 years expertise in the business world as both an employee and a manager
- 15 years' experience in Human Resources in the Government and High-Tech fields
- a Bachelor's in Business with emphasis on Management
- 14 years coaching job seekers at Bravanti
- 4 years professional coach training

Claire was nominated "Woman of the Year" by Business of Professional Women and interviewed for Colorado Woman News and the Healthy Living Radio Show.

She is the co-author of two books:

- "A Guide to Getting It: "Achieving Abundance" and
- "A Guide to Getting It: "Remarkable Management Skills."

Coaching Philosophy

Claire has a gift to inspire and uplift individuals to help them discover their life purpose and create the path to live it. Clients make substantial shifts through increased awareness and clarity and discover that with focus and attention on their passion, the ways and means of achieving it unfold.