

Christine Carley

Outplacement & Career Transition Coach

Christine is a senior career coach and management consultant focused on empowering individuals to define success on their own terms.

She helps managers, executives, staff and entrepreneurs navigate successful career transitions and attain their professional goals. Christine draws on her more than 25 years in corporate marketing, people and client success, human resource and management positions. As an experienced coach and mentor, she provides insight, strategies, and support to candidates.

Key Areas of Career Expertise & Accomplishments

Christine has worked with clients and companies in a wide range of industries and cultures, including Verizon, Harvard University, Jim Beam Brands, Bailey's Irish Cream Ltd., Diageo, Amway International, and the Boston Red Sox. Her diverse background brings a wealth of practical knowledge to her coaching work.

When not in coaching practice for Bravanti, she invests time in the community, where she is a mentor for young college athletes as they embark on their careers post-graduation. She also serves as a volunteer coach for The Honor Foundation (THF), providing career coaching, professional development and transition management to the Special Operations Forces community as they transition from a military career to the private sector. In addition, Christine has been a hospice volunteer for more than 10 years and runs fundraising events for numerous charity organizations, including the ALS Association and Autism Speaks.

Education & Credentials

Christine earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in Humanities from Providence College in Providence, RI as well as an MBA in International Marketing from the Thunderbird School of International Management in Phoenix, AZ and an advanced Professional Certifitcate (APC) in International Business and Law from New York University, Stern School of Business.

Coaching Philosophy

Christine brings strategic thinking, relationship building, communication effectiveness and authenticity to her coaching. She has a passion and enthusiasm for connecting with people, inspiring them to seize opportunities, and empowering them to overcome obstacles to optimize success.
